Gas House Pike, Frederick
Private

1870's

The George Umberger House, a frame two and a half story ell shaped Carpenter Gothic residence faces northeast from the north side of Gas House Pike. The principal facade is three bays wide. A wooden panelled door with single light transom occupies the second bay. The remaining bays are occupied by 2/2 original windows. A Victorian Gothic window is located in the center gable. The window is framed by curvilinear vergeboards.

A two bay wide entrance porch extends across the facade. The porch is supported by six turned columns with decorative brackets. Slatted railing frames the porch between the turned columns. A dentil cornice lies beneath the standing seam tin roof which covers the porch, and covers the entire novelty sided structure.

The George Umberger House was built in all probability by the Cartzendaffer Brothers, Joseph and Edward, who purchased the property from William D. Bowers in 1866.¹ William D. Bowers, a prominent citizen of the Frederick area, was the co-founder of the William Bowers Lumber Company, a family owned business in operation today. The house is significant as the site of a merchant mill from before 1858 to the early twentieth century and as a fine example of the Carpenter Gothic style structure.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The George Umberger House is a frame two and one-half story ell shaped Carpenter Gothic residence which faces northeast from the north side of Gas House Pike.

The principal facade of the building is three bays wide. The main entrance, a wooden panelled door with single light transom, is located in the second bay.

Occupying the remaining two bays on the facade are 2/2 original windows. Wooden louvered shutters similar to the ones on the east side of the house are now missing from the facade windows. A Victorian Gothic window is located in the center gable.

A two bay wide entrance porch extends across the facade. The porch is supported by six turned columns with decorative brackets. A dentil cornice lies below the original standing seam tin roof. Slatted railing frames the porch between the turned columns.

The entire structure rests on a raised, stone rubble foundation. The structure is covered with a standing seam tin roof. Below the roof is a boxed cornice with return. Curvilinear vergeboards frame the center gable. Three original brick chimneys rise from the north, and south gable ends, and from the center of the two story original rear addition. German novelty siding covers the structure.

To the rear of the structure is a brick outbuilding with standing seam tin roof. A 2/2 original window occupies the first bay of the structure. The remaining bay contains a plain wooden door without hardware.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The George Umberger House, a frame ell shaped Carpenter Gothic residence, was built in the late 1870's. The land on which the house sits was part of the mill site or tract which housed several mills along the point where Carroll Creek meets the Monocacy River. In 1893 the property was bought by Samuel Reifsnider from Florence H. Mealey.¹ The deed description described the tract as the "mill property known as Carroll Creek Mills."² In 1913 when the property was next sold, it was described as the Reifsnider Mill tract.³ A merchant mill existed on this tract of land as early as 1858. At this time the property was owned by William D. Bowers and wife.

William Bowers was a prominent member of the Frederick community. Born in 1828, he was the co-founder of the William D. Bowers Lumber Company in 1868 with his father-in-law, Joseph Routzahn.⁴ The Bowers Lumber Company, still a family owned business is one of the most prominent Frederick lumber establishments.

The George Umberger House was built in all probability by the Cartzendaffer Brothers, Joseph and Edward, who bought the property from William Bowers in 1866 and retained it until 1877.⁵ The tract of land on which the house sits has significant relationships to the Frederick County area. The site of a merchant mill from 1858 until the early part of the twentieth century, the tract and home are historically significant to the Gas House Pike area. Architecturally the structure is a fine example of a Carpenter Gothic residence interpreted in frame with decorative carpentry work.
